Announcing the First Annual Early Education and Technology for Children Conference

Salt Lake City, UT — March 1, 2011 – Salt Lake City, Utah, has been selected to host the first annual Early Education and Technology for Children (EETC) conference on March 2-4, 2011, at the Little America Hotel.

EETC is an international conference that serves as a meeting place for researchers, policy makers, administrators, educators, and practitioners to discuss cutting-edge research, innovations, and developments in early childhood education.

Thirty presenters from around the globe will present their research at EETC, including respected experts in the field of early childhood education such as:

- Dr. Marilyn Jager Adams
- Dr. Grover “Russ” Whitehurst
- Dr. Dustin Heuston
- Dr. Warren Buckleitner
- Dr. John Dexter Fletcher

Dr. Adams, internationally regarded for her applied work in the areas of cognition and education, is scheduled to be the concluding speaker at an afternoon luncheon on Friday, March 4th, 11:15AM–12:45PM.

Friday’s luncheon is open to the public free of charge; however, seating is limited. To register for the luncheon visit <http://www.eetconference.org/register/> and select the “Marilyn Adams Open Lecture Registration” option. Registration is open through Wednesday, March 2nd.

For additional information about EETC, and for a full conference schedule, visit <http://www.eetconference.org>.
